NO LIQUOR ON EXPO' GROUNDS

Big Seattle Fair Will Be Temperance Affair Throughout

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 12. — An experiment in connection with a great international exposition is to be tried next year when the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition is held in this city and it will be watched with more than usual interest by church and temperance people and members of the prohibition party. For the first time in the history of expositions, the sale of intoxicating liquors on the grounds or near them will be absolutely prohibited.

The management of expositions in the past have always advanced the claim that it would be impossible to make an exposition pay expenses unless the visitors could get their beer, wine, or whiskey. It would be pointed out that the cosmopolitan character of the visitors, many of whom would be from foreign countries, made it a necessity for the restaurants and cafes and open-air resorts to have wines and liquors for sale with meals. As the exposition management took a percentage of the earnings of every restaurant and resort on the grounds, it was desirable to have the receipts as large as possible. At many expositions the receipts thus obtained have amounted to as high as $7,500 a day, there being many places under the title of summer or beer gardens which would give concerts or vaudeville entertainments and sell beer or wine to the audience. The sale of the beer and wine was the chief end of the enterprise.

In the case of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition in 1909, a different view of the matter is taken. The exposition was financed by the people of Seattle, and the stockholders naturally wish to get a dividend in part if not for all of their subscriptions. Therefore every dollar that could be obtained would help and yet the stockholders and directors have decided that they can get their dividend without the sale of liquor upon the grounds. At first it was much doubted if it was a feasible plan. To be sure, the law as it stood prevented the sale of liquors, for the exposition grounds are a part of the campus of the University of Washington, and the State law provides that liquors shall not be sold within two miles of the University campus. Those who wished to have liquors sold claimed that the Legislature was favorable to granting a special permit to cover the time of the exposition being open. A canvass of the nonthees named at the recent primary indicates that the legislators are willing to do anything the directors might ask in this regard.

However, after a careful investigation and close figuring, it was unanimously agreed that the directors would not ask the Legislature for this privilege, that the law should stand, and that for the first time an exposition would try the experiment of going "dry."

The restaurants and cafes will serve non-alcoholic drinks and mineral waters. The exposition grounds will be supplied direct from a fine mineral spring through galvanized iron pipes. The resorts of the Pay Street, the mile-long amusement street at the lower end of the grounds, will also stick to the non-intoxicating beverages when they have occasion to serve liquid refreshments.

The mineral water concerns are taking advantage of the exceptional opportunities offered to exploit their products and at least a dozen of the leading springs of the West will have exhibits on the grounds, some of them serving the waters free. The managers shrewdly figure that if they can get people accustomed to mineral water they will largely profit by the change from alcoholic drinks.

The directors of the exposition are exploiting the fact of the great fair being "dry" and scores of church, temperance, social, and fraternal organizations have rallied to their support, commending the exposition for its action, and expressing the intention of doing everything possible to advertise the fair and boost the attendance.

When two friends misunderstood each other, a heart to heart talk will make the matter right. Why should it not be the same with nations? Our country represented by our highest and most beloved Princess "bares our crimson heart and appeal to the America's conscience" in order to adjust the few misunderstandings which have cropped up, and which might have, if unwisely and maliciously agitated, developed into a great disaster for the world.

Japan is now doing her utmost in welcoming the American visitors and through them expresses to the American public her true attitude, relying on the clear conscience of the American nation for the solution of the problems arising between the two.

HAND SHAKING OF JAPAN'S EMPRESS

Japanese Paper Speaks Of Courtesy To Americans

The Hawaii Shipto makes the following reference to the incident of the Empress of Japan shaking hands with officers of the Atlantic Fleet: While the ordinary Westerner may look upon the affair as an ordinary thing and not know that there is much significance in this singular act of our beloved and almost apothecized Empress towards the American naval men, there can be no question of its significance to Japanese minds. It is indeed a historic affair that breaks the tradition of a thousand years.

Ever since there was history, our sovereigns, who were invariably deified and were always the center of the nation's worship, were the recipients of bows but never the offerers. To approach them was a trespass for common people; to see them in person was the greatest honor of a lifetime. Fifty years ago, our nation was put in tumult over the discussion of how to save our country from the trespass of foreigners which was thought would bring disgrace upon the sacred name of our rulers, who reigned over the land for thousands of years. The Empire of Nippon was considered a holy land because our deified sovereigns ruled over it.

Foreign intrusion was therefore strongly resented until the whole country was brought to the boiling point and the white snow that covered the pathway to the Gate of Sakurada was stained with the crimson blood of Premier Ii Kamon, who signed his name to the memorable agreement that opened Japan to foreign intercourse. It is a dream now. Yet even to this day who among us ever dreamed that our most exalted Empress would shake hands with the foreigners? Japanese, no matter how high in social position they may be, will never dare to touch her person. We cannot hear this news without a great awe and a heartfelt gratitude to our sovereign, because we think that such an act on the part of the Empress was performed with her sincerest wish to cement the tie between the two nations represented by herself and her foreign visitors. No word will express this sense of our gratitude.

Our proverb says: "Bare thy crimson heart and appeal to the other's conscience." For months and years Japan was misrepresented to America by those who meant to play mischief and thereby accomplish their selfish purposes. Even the present visit of the White Fleet to Japan's shores was misrepresented to mean a threat; and some uneasiness prevailed among the people about the outcome of the Fleet's visit to Japan—where an unprecedented welcome is now being extended to the Fleet, and which combined with the message from President Roosevelt, is interpreted by the Japanese papers as a silent alliance between the two nations.

When two friends misunderstood each other, a heart to heart talk will make the matter right. Why should it not be the same with nations? Our country represented by our highest and most beloved Princess "bares our crimson heart and appeal to the America's conscience" in order to adjust the few misunderstandings which have cropped up, and which might have, if unwisely and maliciously agitated, developed into a great disaster for the world.

Japan is now doing her utmost in welcoming the American visitors and through them expresses to the American public her true attitude, relying on the clear conscience of the American nation for the solution of the problems arising between the two.
